

Professor Aikawa ISBI Young Investigator Prize

Purpose

The Prize is to be established to promote the activities of the International Society for Burn Injuries (ISBI) by encouraging and motivating young ISBI members from developing countries to conduct research on clinical problems and prevention of burns.

The Award

At the biennial ISBI Congress, investigators will be awarded a plaque and a monetary award.

 Physician submissions must be for oral presentations. Non physician submissions may be either oral or poster submissions.

Eligibility

To apply to the Prize, all of the following conditions must be met:

1. He/She must be a paid-up ISBI member from developing countries as defined by the ISBI dues category of “low” income areas.
2. He/She must be under the age of 40 years on the opening day of the biennial ISBI Congress.
3. He/She must be the first author of the paper presented during the biennial ISBI Congress when Prize is given.

Application

When the abstract for the biennial ISBI Congress is submitted, the applicant must specify desire to be considered by indicating so on the abstract submission form. To avoid presentation conflicts, the applicant must also send a notification of abstract submission including abstract title to lizals@tgti.net. The applicant is also required to submit a Conflict of Interest statement including grants, travel expenses and registration fees. A copy of your Curriculum Vitae (CV) and Conflict of Interest statement can be sent either by email lizals@tgti.net.

Selection

All accepted abstracts will be allocated to a specifically designated session (s) so that the the session moderator(s) can evaluate the presentations.

Awarding the Prize

The Prize so selected will be awarded at the time of General Assembly of the biennial ISBI Congress. The prize consists of a plaque and monetary award.

If you need more information or further assistance, please contact the ISBI Executive Director at lizals@tgti.net.