Urbanism and Culture

Chapalita, one of the most beautiful and emblematic neighborhoods in the city—inspired by the mythical garden cities of renowned English urban planner Ebenezer L. Howard—, can be found in this area. Its tree-lined streets along with their hub and spoke distribution provide it with a unique personality. Over the years, restaurants, cafés, and shops have been opened here, but despite the changes, it still retains its original identity.

Expo Guadalajara, the second largest exhibition center in Latin America, is the preferred site for major congresses, conventions, and commercial exhibitions in the city, and not to mention, every year it hosts the International Book Fair. For its part, the Plaza del Sol, Mexico's first shopping center and one of the most visited in Guadalajara, is another essential stop.

The area is also home to Metropolitan Park, which covers an area of more than 247 acres and is the ideal spot for enjoying the pleasant mid-afternoon weather. However, the neighborhood is best represented by its restaurants. Local, or Tapatío, cuisine is available in the Expo area with interesting options like antojitos, typical Mexican food, pasta, steaks, and signature cuisine, among others.

Tourism in Guadalajara

GUADALAJARA'S CATHEDRAL

No one is surprised that the capital of Jalisco has regained its splendor before the eyes of the world. Considered the jewel of Mexico in the mid-20th-century (and home to Mexico's most emblematic symbols, including tequila and mariachis), Guadalajara has now redefined its identity with interesting concepts in architecture, art, design, and urban life in general.

There is no doubt that the "Pearl of the West" is still a fruitful source of artists and scholars who have understood the signs of the times without losing faith in their roots. Here a dynamic and attractive cultural life echo through the painted pottery of the Tonaltecas, valleys filled with blue agave, sunsets over Chapala, architecture marked by horizons and quarried stone patios, the smell of damp soil, aging tequila, and Charro nostalgia.

These elements, along with countless others, endow this fair province with a cosmopolitan face unafraid to show its creative and vivid potential. Guadalajara's present is lived on multiple levels: it is a city where history, celebration, nature, the artisan tradition, and good drinking are interwoven to highlight Mexico's most authentic region.

Getting to know Guadalajara takes time and requires the ability to interpret layers and layers of multiple and simultaneous phenomena.

Downtown Area

HISTORIC DOWNTOWN

The City From its Origin

We could say that the central block of Guadalajara is one of the most interesting areas in any Latin American city. With strong links to its colonial past, the city center provides a catalog of colonial history, while its 20th-century growth has left a deep modern imprint on the urban landscape. It is definitely worth a visit.

The most emblematic area is the Cruz de Plazas, designed in the 20th-century, which consists of four public squares that surround the cathedral to form a Latin cross. These points feature the buildings that serve to define Tapatía identity, including the Government Palace, the San Agustín and La Merced churches, and the gardens of the Rotonda and the Plaza de Armas, with its beautiful art nouveau kiosk. The Regional Museum of Guadalajara, a former 18th-century convent, and the Degollado Theater, a symbol of Mexican fine arts, head this group of buildings.

In the center is the Paseo Alcalde, an urban project that attempts to replicate the old street of San Francisco—a road that connects the Sanctuary neighborhood (where the old Civil Hospital and the Panteón de Belén are located) with the San Francisco and Aranzazú churches, crown jewels of the Mexican Baroque. From here you can see Juárez Square and Agua Azul Park.

However, the real treasure in the city center is the Hospicio Cabañas, the city's most important neoclassical building, with a history that today is revived in the form of an internationally recognized cultural and artistic center.

Financial Area

Luxury and Modernity

This area, comprised of Zapopan and the city's northern neighborhoods, makes it abundantly clear that Guadalajara is growing and changing at great speed. Hotels, apartment towers, corporate offices, luxury shopping malls, the best restaurants in the city, museums, and cultural and entertainment venues, are just some of the attractions found in the area.

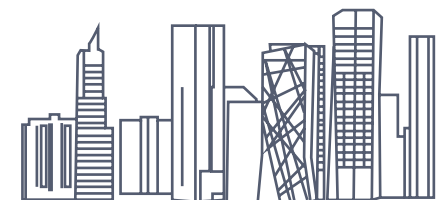

Today, Zapopan is really an extension of Guadalajara, a traditional and essential destination featuring modern and classical architecture as well as historic sites. Here you should visit the recently renovated 20 de Noviembre walkway—where you will find cantinas, cafés, restaurants, and food stalls—which leads to the Plaza de las Américas, the Zapopan Art Museum, and the famous basilica, a Baroque Franciscan sanctuary.

The financial area of Guadalajara, for its part, features traditional neighborhoods like Providencia, where there has been an interesting transformation over the last 10 years. This tree-filled zone is full of life, with parks, median strips, boutiques, cafés, and restaurants.

The neighborhood is adjacent to the Los Colomos urban forest and connects with two of the city's main roads: Américas and López Mateos.

Chapultepec Area

Creative Effervescence

Chapultepec is synonymous with effervescence. In this part of the city, you will find the best of the party along with numerous cultural, gastronomic, and artistic options that will make you fall in love with everything Tapatío.

The area's dynamism dates to the beginning of the 21st-century, when international trends of the independent and urban were consolidated under the term hipster. Guadalajara also experienced this change, and today the area is a kaleidoscope of the diversity of both the city and its inhabitants.

The backbone is the old Paseo Lafayette, renamed Chapultepec, which is an avenue that crosses the modern boundaries of the oldest streets: from the Plaza de la República to the Niños Héroes roundabout, passing by the magnificent fountains designed by Ignacio Díaz Morales.

Its charm lies in being able to witness Guadalajara's different stages of urban development in one area, revealing the city one moment in history at a time. In the 19th-century, the promenade linked the Americana and Lafayette neighborhoods, built in French and Victorian styles, and the houses from this era still remain standing today. Later, the area became the seedbed for the Tapatía School of Architecture, a stylistic movement that defined the aesthetic of many artists, including, of course, the only Mexican Pritzker Prize winner: Luis Barragán. Its constructions are still standing and are well-worth admiring.

With its streets full of magnificent trees (don't miss the old Paseo del Bosque, today Guadalupe Zuno, and Libertad Street), the vibe in Chapultepec is essential to understanding Guadalajara.

Magical Towns

Among the many tourist attractions in Jalisco, the state has Magical Towns that invite you to discover their fascinating traditions.

Due to their geographical proximity, these Jalisco destinations can be traveled as a gastronomic, cultural, historical and architectural route.

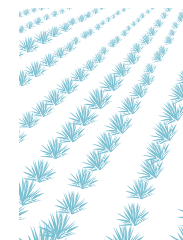

MAZAMITLA

Tapalpa

Tlaquepaque

Tequila

Chapala

Mazamitla

It is an ideal destination to practice adventure sports and enjoy the mountainous landscape, it also has festivities such as the celebration of its foundation that takes place the last days of March with various cultural and sports activities or the Flower Festival that takes place in October. and that is full of colors, flowers, crafts and even concerts and parades.

Transfer from Historic Downtown to Mazamitla: 2 hours 20 min. - 135 Km

Tequila

An infinite postcard of agaves welcomes you in this Magical Town of international prestige. Images of serenades and long nights take over your mind: it's time to find out how one of the most appreciated drinks in the world is distilled. There are several tequila brands that offer tours to observe the process first-hand. At night, the party is a must to the sound of a typical mariachi, an exquisite birria and of course, a shot of tequila!

Transfer from Historic Downtown to Tequila: 1 hour 7 min. - 65.5 Km

Chapala

In addition to having the largest lake in Mexico, the beauty of the riverbank and the benefits of the lacustrine climate have earned it the nickname of "The city of eternal summer". Before visiting the lake, be dazzled by the Old Railway Station and the Renaissance buildings of Paseo Ramón Corona, true jewels of Mexican architecture. The great mirror of the lake has dozens of activities such as excursions, cycling, hiking, golf or a good dip in the San Juan de Cosalá spa. To finish your tour, visit "Los alacranes" and "Mezcala", two enchanting islands!

Transfer from Historic Downtown to Chapala: 1 hour 10 min. - 52.3 Km

Tapalpa

In 2002 Tapalpa became the first of the Magical Towns of Jalisco, ever since surprising its visitors and making them want to return. Its name means 'Land of colors', probably because it is full of pines, oaks, oaks and flowers that make it a picturesque place. Its main attractions are its water fountains, the San Antonio Parish, the Purísima Chapel and the Sierra de Tapalpa.

Transfer from Historic Downtown to Tapalpa: 2 hours 10 min. - 133 Km

Tlaquepaque

Tlaquepaque is magical because of its history as a small town far from Guadalajara that became a favorite place to visit. Its charming gastronomy, seasoned with the warmth of home and also its haute cuisine that the different places have. The artisan vocation that transcends generations and preserves its magic in each craft. Our traditions that fill with aromas, colors and flavors that make you feel great pride. Walk the streets and walkways that always transport you to unique and wonderful places.

Transfer from Historic Downtown to Tlaquepaque: 25 min. - 8.5 Km

Security in Guadalajara

GUADALAJARA POLICE

- For the security strategy, we will use all of our resources and infrastructure, Guadalajara has one of the most technologically advanced public security systems in the country, with local organization and a multi-task Command Coordination, Communications, Computer and Control Center called (C5 Escudo Urbano) that integrates the availability of a digital video surveillance network with 6,540 video cameras which covers most of the key zones, strategic areas, transport, buildings, venues, streets, avenues and transit intersections in the metro area.
- It also has a radio communication system that is interconnected with all the emergency services and authorities in the State of Jalisco, and uses a variety of network technology and frequencies such as Tetra Pol, Astro-P25, Tetra Pol IP, LTE and has approximately 19,700 radio users.
- The C5 Command Center has an Emergency Response "911" number that receives in a daily bases 20,000 calls attended 24 hours by the operational team of 261 officers in different shifts. The equipment in the city has also 334 license plate reader cameras.
- Guadalajara stands out as one of the safest cities in Latin America. Several of our Enforcement Agencies through the years have been certified by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA), the Road and Transit Police, Zapopan and Guadalajara Police forces, and recently this year the C5 Command Center (Escudo Urbano) obtained the certification.
- Guadalajara's airport has the second highest domestic traffic and is the third most important in the country in terms of international traffic.
- Guadalajara and Zapopan Metropolitan Police with a task force up to 5,600 police officers and 1,500 patrols. Civil Protection and Fire Department Officers between both cities up to 850 firefighters and 170 operational vehicles.
